The coronavirus crisis has forced many to work from home. But remote work has been popular for many years, for many reasons. Can you and your employees work remotely successfully through COVID-19 and should you continue afterward?

Are remote employees more productive, inexpensive and knowledgeable for your business or do they create more challenges that you may not have the resources to handle?

BENEFIT: BROADENING YOUR RECRUITMENT POOL AND ATTRACTING TALENT

Remote workers can provide businesses with the opportunity to increase their recruitment radius, hire more diverse employees, and attract talent that isn’t limited by distance to the office. As the Forbes Technology Council highlighted, “Instead of taking the mediocre candidate in your area, you can hire the superstar who lives on the other side of the country. Limiting yourself to hiring within your locality restricts you to a small talent pool.”

CONCERN: PRODUCTIVITY

Concerns about remote workers’ productivity are common. More than three-quarters of employers believe their employees do personal tasks while on the clock, according to a survey by TSheets by QuickBooks conducted in January 2019. But just over half of responding employers believe their employees are “highly productive,” while the rest believe their employees “could be more productive” (41%) or are “not very productive” (5%).

However, remote employees responded positively to these same questions, with a plurality of surveyed employees (30%) stating they only spent about 30 minutes on personal tasks while clocked in, and 96% of employees stating their productivity was “above average” or “average.”

Perhaps the best solution to the productivity debate is to test it out with your own staff, and for managers to have regular check-ins with their team to ensure everyone’s on schedule.

BENEFIT: RETAINING TOP TALENT

Forbes Technology Council notes that remote policies can help retain skilled workers, especially those that may be considering a move. If someone’s spouse is offered a job in another state or an employee moves to be closer to family, the business will be less likely to lose the talent. Those employees’ institutional knowledge can be retained as they will be able to still work for the company, no matter their location.

Decreasing employee turnover rates is always good for business. High turnover can easily ruin a business’ reputation as an employer, and replacing employees can cost significantly more money than retaining existing skilled talent.

CONCERN: COMPLYING WITH LABOR LAWS

Hiring remote workers means that bookkeepers or accountants may face additional hurdles with paying out-of-state employees. With the different federal and state labor laws in place, it can be overwhelming to try to parse through them all, determine how your employees should be paid, and decide what laws they are subject to.

If employees work in a different state from the business’s location, then they are subject to their state’s overtime, minimum wage, and other labor laws. Additionally, when running payroll, accountants have to withhold that employee’s state taxes—primarily income tax, although some states may also require unemployment tax as well.

WHERE TO START: BUILDING A COMMUNITY

If you find the benefits outweigh the challenges of utilizing remote workers, then you will need to make some adjustments to ensure your remote workers fit with your business strategy.

Often the biggest complaint made by remote workers is the lack of community they feel with those in the office. Some companies may increasingly use “in-the-office” days to combat remote worker loneliness, Forbes contributor Abdullahi Muhammed has predicted. This would require workers to come into the office at least once a week or month, but it could help them feel more connected with their co-workers and more engaged in collaborative projects.

Additionally, as Abdullahi highlights, coworking spaces are becoming increasingly popular across the country. While some employees may use these spaces to travel while still staying connected with the office, others may find this also increases their opportunities to socialize face-to-face with others in their community or industry. This can create further opportunities for brainstorming, networking, and creating lasting partnerships, both for individual employees as well as their employer.

MAINTAINING A REMOTE WORKFORCE: REVAMPING COMMUNICATION

Your business’ communication style and methods are essential to consider when first beginning to work with a remote workforce. A few steps businesses can take to improve their communication processes include:

- Leaders should become active listeners and provide opportunities for feedback through performance feedback tools or anonymous surveys.
- Important documents should be easily accessible so remote employees can access them outside the office.
- Utilize free or low-cost internal communication networks (or instant messaging services) that can help all employees directly contact their co-workers or managers.

DO REMOTE WORKERS FIT IN YOUR BUSINESS’S FUTURE?

The pros and cons of remote workers are something businesses should consider. Luckily, there are some solutions that may work even for small businesses on a tight budget.

If you can’t go big with hiring employees from another state, a small business may be able to hire employees from other towns around the state, which still widens the net of recruitment for skilled workers. Additionally, as coworking spaces become increasingly popular, employees may find a new sense of community as well as new ideas that can further develop their employers’ company culture.

Whether remote employees work for your business right now, it is a growing trend that is here to stay. If you’ve been eager to modernize your business, making the adjustments necessary to include remote employees in your workforce may prove to be an investment worth making.

I would have never dreamed that “It’s Back to School” would be such a controversial comment not only in our community but across the country. One thing everyone can agree upon is that the safety of our students and the safety of those that serve our students is THE highest priority in determining how schools will re-launch and open.

Schools have been tirelessly working through the summer with local Health Departments in developing protocols to address different scenarios that parents, students and school staff members may encounter during the school day. This includes addressing concerns regarding transportation, cafeteria service, classroom layout, a student not feeling well, a positive COVID-19 individual in the school environment and many other scenarios. Many schools will also continue the task of providing support services from feeding the students to mental health services.

Which now brings us to how will our students be taught. Our six higher education institutions and 17 public school districts in Stark County are in the process of rolling out plans which include on-line and small class in-person experiences. The k-12 school systems are also considering input from parental surveys in developing options. All schools will most likely offer in-person and/or some form of on-line learning. The goal is to keep our students advancing in their education in whatever form that may take.

All school systems are committed to make on-line options different than what we faced in the spring by the sudden closure of the schools. Administrators and teachers are committed to make on-line options more engaging and interactive with teachers. All schools and our community are poised to assist students using the on-line option to ensure students have adequate internet connectivity, hardware and family support which enhances the opportunity for success.

Our schools are facing very fluid and constantly changing criteria. The one bit of advice I can offer our community is to please be patient and be fluid with our school systems. In my totally unbiased opinion, we have the BEST talent, MOST committed individuals, and MOST FANTASTIC school systems in the state. Our students are in good hands.

UPDATE TO THE BWC SAFETY COUNCIL PROGRAM FOR THE UPCOMING FISCAL YEAR, THAT STARTED JULY 1.

Due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, Ohio Safety Councils will conduct all meetings virtually (online only) this fiscal year. This is the safest way to hold meetings as we work to prevent the spread of COVID-19 in Ohio. We expect most safety councils will choose to host virtual meetings this year. However, if that is not the case with your local program, we will connect you with a neighboring safety council that will host you until in-person meetings resume.

The decision to go virtual will also make participation as easy as possible for you as you focus on resuming your operations and keeping your workforce safe.

In light of the difficult and unusual times, we will not be offering a rebate for participation nor the performance rebate (for those eligible) to employers who participate in the BWC Safety Council program.

While this is not the usual direct financial reward for attending, we believe your business will still receive valuable workplace safety information and resources by attending meetings online.

What you learn at upcoming virtual meetings can help with cost savings and keeping your workers safe from injuries and illness at work.

Look to your local safety council for information on upcoming meetings and programming as they remain your source for occupational safety and health and workers’ compensation information and resources!

Sincerely, Michelle Francisco
BWC Safety Council Program Manager

The Stark County Safety Council is planning some great speakers and topics for the FREE safety webinars. We hope that you will join us by staying safe and engaged throughout FY21. Even though we can not meet in person we are still available for your safety needs.

UP, UP AND AWAY THEY GO! Hot air balloons always brighten the skies and spirits of everyone who spots one. Now is your time to be creative and create your very own hot air balloon. Use whatever materials or recyclable items you have around the house and create your very own hot air balloon. Don’t worry about them taking flight. We want to see pictures of what you can create. The first-place winner in each age category will win six (6) tickets to the 2021 Canton Repository Grand Parade.

YOUR BALLOON WILL BE JUDGED ON THE FOLLOWING CRITERIA:

- Creativity
- Resourcefulness
- Color
- Detail

WHEN YOU SUBMIT YOUR PHOTO PLEASE SEND US YOUR NAME, EMAIL, AND AGE.

Age Categories:
6 – 10 // 11 – 15 // 16 – 20 // 21 +

INSTRUCTIONS:
You must create your hot air balloon from any household or recyclable materials.

Paint or cover your balloon envelope however you would prefer.

You may use the following ideas to get started. But the options are endless, so use your imagination!

- Draw pictures or glue cutouts that have been made from construction paper onto the balloon envelope.
- Make a basket from any material that resembles a wicker basket.
- Most important is to name your balloon. Examples: Just a Dream, I’m Back, Golden High, Night Fury

Once complete, take a proud picture and send it to Andrea Hartman at andreah@cantonchamber.org.

All photo entries must be submitted by Monday, August 10th to be displayed on the social media accounts of the Pro Football Hall of Fame Enshrinement Festival and Visit Canton.
Even though the 2020 Pro Football Hall of Fame Enshrinement Festival had to be postponed until next year, you can still have fun by creating a hot air balloon or a shoe box float.

CONTEST

WHO DOESN’T LOVE A PARADE? Now is your time to be creative and create your very own parade float out of a shoebox. Use whatever creativity and theme that comes to mind. Instructions are below. The first-place winner in each age category will win six (6) tickets to the 2021 Canton Repository Grand Parade.

YOUR FLOAT WILL BE JUDGED ON THE FOLLOWING CRITERIA:

- Creativity
- Resourcefulness
- Color
- Detail

WHEN YOU SUBMIT YOUR PHOTO PLEASE SEND US YOUR NAME, EMAIL, AND AGE.

Age Categories:

- 6 – 10
- 11 – 15
- 16 – 20
- 21 +

INSTRUCTIONS:

You must create your parade float from a shoebox.

Paint or cover the shoebox however you would prefer.

You may use the following ideas to get started. But the options are endless, so use your imagination!

- Draw pictures or glue cutouts that have been made from construction paper onto the base and backdrop of your float.
- Embellish the float with fun details like miniature figures, flowers, lights, glitter, sequins, buttons, beads, ribbon or bits of fabric.
- Make a flag from fabric or paper and use a drinking straw or coffee stirrer for the flag post.

Once complete, take a proud picture and send it to Andrea Hartman at andreah@cantonchamber.org.

All photo entries must be submitted by Monday, August 10th to be displayed on the social media accounts of the Pro Football Hall of Fame Enshrinement Festival and Visit Canton.

Why are you interested in Stark County’s Young Professionals initiative? Canton is my home and I want to be a part of growth and opportunity. I have a passion for entrepreneurship and want to help create an environment where we can collaborate and thrive.

What would you share to encourage other people to join? I think it’s a valuable thing to come together and be able to have a voice within the community, as well as to take an opportunity for self growth by learning from each other.

Where did you grow up, if Stark County what kept you here, if not, where did you live and what encouraged you move to Stark County? I grew up in Perry Township. I did move to Savannah, GA for a while and I came back home. I decided to come back home because this is where my community, network and support system are. I also see a ton of potential in the area and I wanted to become a part of the growth.

What do you like MOST about Stark County? I like that there is a diverse group of people and I love the Arts District! Also you can have the best of both worlds when it comes to the city and the country. It’s accessible to get to either pretty quickly.

What would you change about Stark County if you could? If I could change something I would change the marketing toward the arts district and try and get more people to support the local businesses.

What do you see as valuable opportunities for YPs in Stark County when it comes to career opportunities, cultural access, leadership or community involvement opportunities? SCORE is one of the best opportunities for Young Professionals to participate in. Also attending First Fridays and the Downtown Canton Flea are valuable when it comes to becoming a part of the local culture.

What would attract more YPs to Stark County? I think hosting more events, maybe outdoor music events downtown. Honestly focusing on creating a more green environment. Having recycling downtown, and community gardens.

What do you do in the evenings or on the weekends for fun in Stark County or NE Ohio? I usually would go down to George’s or Buzzbin. And of course attending events when they happen.

Could you see yourself spending your lifetime in Stark County and if not, what would cause you to leave? I can see myself living here for a lifetime as long as there is some sort of growth within my business and a travel balance of course because we all need a break from winter! If I were to leave it would be because of an opportunity to work within a beauty industry companies headquarters and also weather!

CommQuest Services’ Adolescent Campus is excited to announce it will now offer outpatient services, expanding the scope of treatment offered at the location to achieve an extended continuum of care for adolescents all in one location.

The main addition to the service expansion is the Intensive Outpatient program, consisting of a two-and-a-half-hour intensive group session Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays for six to 12 weeks. Each week, adolescents will also receive individual counseling, case management services and treatment for mild to moderate mental health issues such as anxiety, depression, and other diagnoses as needed.

The outpatient program also allows clients who attended Bright or Smith House to continue receiving services to heal after their 60-120 day stay in residential treatment ends.

For more information on CommQuest Services’ Intensive Outpatient visit www.commquest.org.

Pro Football Hall of Fame Marathon will host a special Centennial Celebration 5K on Saturday, Sept. 19. Participants can take part in the event in-person or virtually.

In conjunction with the NFL’s birthday celebration, the in-person and virtual 5K run/walk will take participants through the 10 decades of professional football. The in-person race starts at 9 a.m. ET in downtown Canton and will take runners past the location where the NFL was founded on Sept. 17, 1920: Ralph Hay’s Hupmobile dealership.

Virtual runners will receive their packets, including event shirt, finisher medal and race bib, one week prior to the event. In-person runners will be able to pick up their packets the week prior to or the morning of the race. Additionally, in-person runners will receive a silicone bracelet indicating their social distancing preference.

Each runner randomly will be placed on one of 10 teams that represents a specific decade of the NFL. There is a friendly team score competition based on finishing place. All members of the winning team will receive a special commemorative item. An awards ceremony will take place virtually at 4 p.m. ET on the day of the event via Facebook Live.

As the COVID-19 pandemic evolves, additional safety procedures will be released – especially as it relates to in-person runners. Race officials are working closely with state and local government and health officials to ensure the health and safety of all. If for some reason the race cannot take place in-person, all runners/walkers would participate virtually on their own.

The fee to participate in the race is $40 for adult runners/walkers and $20 for youth. To learn more and to register for the race, visit www.hofmarathon.com/centennial-5k.

Total Distribution, Inc. (TDI), a Peoples Services, Inc. company, is expanding its Nitro, West Virginia hazardous materials facility. Given the growing demand for this specialized storage in the Kanawha Valley area, TDI decided to invest in its existing Nitro warehouse with initial expansion plans drafted in 2018. Starting with site preparation by Stanley Miller Construction, construction began in 2019 on the additional 105,000 square foot hazardous materials-capable building adjacent to the existing Nitro facility.

“We have long-term customers here in Nitro who have been using our services for over 30 years, and about half of the staff has been with the company for the entire time,” said Doug Sibila, President and CEO of Peoples Services, Inc. “I couldn’t be prouder of this team! With the current COVID-19 pandemic, this team was able to help the Dow Corporation switch manufacturing over to hand sanitizer and supply first responders in West Virginia. We worked closely with our clients and organized deliveries to first responders with the National Guard.”

Innis Maggiore, the nation’s leading positioning ad agency, today announced it has added two special project interns for the summer. Bailey Balderson is working in agency’s Client Services department and Logan Maggiore is assisting in the agency’s Media & Digital Marketing department.

“We’re proud to play a role in helping Logan and Bailey develop new skillsets necessary for successful careers in marketing and to help strengthen the future of our industry,” said President & CEO Dick Maggiore.

David Barbera, Co-Owner and GM of Barbco, Incorporated along with a new volunteer leadership team was sworn into office at the association’s Annual Meeting, held this year in Tucson, Arizona at the 2020 NUCA Convention and Exhibit. David is honored to be chosen as a Director-At-Large for this esteemed organization.

NUCA is the National Utility Contractors Association — the leading trade association working solely for the utility construction and excavation industry in the United States. NUCA’s nationwide network of state/regional Chapters and member companies represent utility contractors, excavators, suppliers, manufacturers, and other providers in the water, sewer, gas, electric, treatment plant, telecommunications, and excavation industries.

NUCA’s core purpose is to improve the operational proficiency and financial performance of its member companies by providing services that focus on shared industry issues. NUCA also works to secure more funding for America’s aging underground infrastructure. Founded in 1964, NUCA is the driving force for improving conditions in the utility construction and excavation industry, for both open-cut and trenchless contractors.
